

Designing a Meeting/Event/Programme

When we work with a client to design a meeting or programme - we like to involve a design group - a mix of the stakeholders involved in the event or programme.

We spend quality time on getting the inputs and outputs clear, mapping the challenges and ensuring that we have set a clear purpose and outcomes for all concerned. We share our learning about design and delivery and coach our clients to develop the capabilities as well.

Our work to prepare for and start the design is just as much fun - participative and interactive - as the event or programme itself.

In other words - we practice what we preach.
